

WCIG Employment

Employment programs
for people experiencing disadvantage

www.wcig.org.au

We believe everyone should have the opportunity to achieve their career goals.

Our employment programs support this principle by assisting people from various backgrounds to prepare for, find and keep a meaningful job. To do this we liaise extensively with employers and the wider community.

Employment Programs

Our employment programs link people to jobs in various industries. We provide individual support for jobseekers who are experiencing difficulties in finding the right job, as well as working with employers to find the right fit for their vacancies.

People we can assist include those who are long-term unemployed or at risk of long-term unemployment, and young culturally diverse and Indigenous jobseekers looking for employment opportunities.

Disability Employment Services

Our Disability Employment Services assist people who live with an illness, injury, disability or mental illness to prepare for, find and keep a meaningful job.

We work with you to tailor a plan and set achievable career goals. Supports can include:

- Resume and cover letter writing
- Interview techniques and training
- Use of onsite computers for job searching
- Help with travel to or from a job interview or new workplace
- Appropriate clothing for work and/or other work related equipment
- Workplace modifications
- Regular on the job support
- Links to education and training

NDIS Employment Supports

WCIG provides various NDIS supports; including Employment and Education Transition, Support Coordination, Cleaning and Home Maintenance, and Social, Recreational, Community and Life Skills.

Facing Redundancy

We assist workers who have been made redundant and those facing redundancy to find new skills and industries and to re-enter the workforce with confidence.

National Panel of Assessors

WCIG provides disability assessment services for people with disability who are employed and need support to stay in employment. This can include modifying the physical environment, determine support levels required and enabling productivity-based wages.
